Key strengths and recommendations

Strengths

- The learning by developing operating model (LbD) that Laurea has developed over the long term supports the working life orientation and student-centred approach of the degree programmes in an excellent manner.
- Research, development and innovation (RDI) activities are an integral part of the implementation of Laurea's overall strategy. RDI activities are carried out by the entire higher education institution and the attitude towards the activities is enthusiastic and goal oriented.
- Internal and external stakeholders have been widely engaged in the development of Laurea's quality system.
- Laurea's key partnership model developing the region is innovative, develops the organisation and has clear objectives.

Recommendations

- The practices of competence-based assessment and identification and recognition of prior learning should be systematically developed to make them more comprehensive and uniform.
- RDI activities must be linked more closely to the other core duties of the higher education institution and the needs of working life in the region.
- The staff's field-specific content knowledge must be updated and the related competence developed more systematically.
- The key partnership model developing the region must be linked more closely to the RDI activities.
